UNITED STATES AIR FORCE

TECHNICAL SERGEANT AMANDA E. THOMPSON

Technical Sergeant Amanda E. Thompson is the Personnel Manpower and Accessions NCO of the 122nd Fighter Wing, Fort Wayne ANG, Indiana where she updates computerized personnel data, facilitates personnel readiness programs, schedules individuals for processing personnel actions such as reenlistment, promotion, separation, retirement, or reassignment. She builds and maintains readiness programs ensuring a mission-ready force to execute home station and expeditionary mission requirements. TSgt Thompson provides guidance and support along with monitoring manning documents, performance reports, awards, decorations, and promotions.

TSgt Thompson Sergeant enlisted in the Active Duty Air Force in 1999. Following basic training she attended the Personnel Apprentice Course, Keesler Air Force Base, Mississippi. She served a four year active duty tour and after a two year break in service enlisted in the Ohio Air National Guard in 2006. Spending the next eight years in the personnel career field, she spent the majority of her enlistment auditing and building orderly room programs. She served as the Unit Career Advisor and Unit Deployment Manager until transferring to the Indiana National Guard in 2014. Her assignments have included Mississippi, Texas, Colorado, Ohio, and Indiana.
